World Destiny

Revealed by Daniel the Prophet

"There is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and maketh known what shall be in the latter days" Daniel 2:28

The World Your Child Will Inherit

Every thinking person should be deeply concerned at the ominous deterioration in world conditions. We do not mean in international relationships merely, but in the steep decline of moral standards that form the social environment in which we and our children live.

The present state of things has gradually crept in so that the full extent of deterioration has gone largely unheeded; but if we were in a position to compare conditions of fifty or so years ago with those of today, we would be alarmed at how sharp the decline has been!

Consider these facts:

- » Today crime is increasing at such a rate that it cannot be effectively controlled, and the problem is steadily mounting.
- » Despite unparalleled affluence, dissatisfaction is rife, suicide is on the increase, and in the U.S. one such occurs every thirteen minutes, whilst four unsuccessful attempts take place at the same time.
- » In every country, violence on the roads is breaking new records; more people are killed in accidents than in war.
- » Complete disunity characterizes national life and violence is continuously erupting in all parts of the world.
- » Shameless immorality, pornography, permissiveness, drug addiction are on the increase. With many, the sanctity of marriage is no longer respected; premarital sexual relationships are common; and such "literature" openly justifies the lowering of moral restraint.
- » In this age of marriage counsellors, psychologists, guidance clinics, and open sex education in schools — divorce, marital unhappiness, child delinquency, and illegitimacy have never been higher!

- » Discipline has broken down with the decline in family life, so that teenage students are governed by mob hysteria manifested by turbulence and violence. Even the universities claiming to be the highest seat of education, are noted for their indiscipline.
- » Internationally, morality is in a deplorable state. Brutal violence is the weapon used to intimidate; opponents are shot down in cold blood, terrorism has become almost a way of life.
- » In this age of steeply rising costs, the cheapest commodity is human life itself.
- » With spiralling world population, particularly in eastern countries, it is assessed that within 50 years, starvation will be rife and a gigantic struggle will break out for control of the arable areas of the globe.
- » And over this world of mad hatreds hangs the black, threatening cloud of nuclear war.

What Can Be Done?

The above is a brief sketch of the world your child will inherit. In addition, there are personal problems.

Every one of us has an incurable disease that will one day bring us to the grave: it is the dreaded disease of mortality. Man seeks by scientific research to conquer this, but he makes no progress. Though progress has been made in medical knowledge and surgery, the diseases that today are attacking humanity are more deep-seated and terrible than ever before. Heart diseases, cancer, and blood deficiencies, are some of the deep-seated afflictions that are on the increase, and that seem to defy man with all his knowledge.

Your only hope is the salvation offered in Christ Jesus through a physical resurrection from the dead to life eternal.

The only hope for your children is an education in spiritual truths that will enable him or her to face up to the challenges and pressures that they will inevitably find in the world as they grow up.

In other words, to counter the destructive forces that surround us, and threaten to destroy us, we must turn to the Bible, and we can do so with every confidence, for fulfilling Bible prophecy in our own day enables us to see that what it proclaims will surely come to pass.

Prophecies Fulfilling Today

Take but two prophetic statements of the Lord Jesus Christ, and compare them with conditions that are currently familiar to us.

He declared that “as the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be” (Matthew 24:37-39). The record in Genesis chapter 6, reveals that the days of Noah were noted for a decline in morality (vv. 2-3), widespread wickedness (v. 5), universal violence (v. 11), the corruption of Godly principles (v. 12), and the imminence of a cataclysmic crisis that destroyed that civilization.

What are the conditions today?

Similar to those that prevailed in the days of Noah!

Again Christ declared: “As it was in the days of Lot [in Sodom]... even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed” (Luke 17:28-30).

The history of Sodom is being repeated today, on a scale never known to history — with greed, brutality, beastliness, and criminal instincts in the ascendancy, even to the legalizing of homosexuality, and the world is heading towards a terrible crisis that will overwhelm civilization, as it did Sodom.

Sodom’s sin was not merely immorality: but the general attitude towards it. It was immoral without shame or any attempt to hide it (Isaiah 3:9). People openly supported the wicked in opposition to the righteous (Jeremiah 23:14), as is done today. The people of Sodom manifested ‘pride’ induced by “fulness of bread and abundance of idleness” (Ezekiel 16:49-50).

In this age of scientific development, widespread affluence and an ever shortening work-week, the world is experiencing similar conditions to those of Sodom.

We may well ask, what on earth is wrong with the world? To gain an accurate answer we must turn to Bible prophecy.

World History Outlined

The purpose of God, as far as the earth is concerned, is clearly revealed in a remarkable prophecy contained in Daniel chapter 2. Every confidence can be placed in it for most of the prophecy has been fulfilled.

In a few verses, it outlines world history since the days of Daniel (603bc) to the present, and on to the future.

Daniel the prophet was taken as a captive to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar. That mighty Babylonian monarch had brought the whole world to his feet, and was concerned as to what might be the destiny of the empire he had established. God revealed the answer through a remarkable dream in which the king was shown the Divine plan of the ages.

The king, however, did not understand the dream. He sought the assistance of the "wise men of Babylon," and demanding as an evidence of their ability to correctly interpret it, that they first tell him the dream and then explain it. Naturally, they were unable to do this, and in his anger and disappointment, the king issued a royal edict against them, threatening them with death if they did not reveal the desired information within a given period.

The prophet Daniel was included in this edict. But he made his plight a matter of prayer, seeking the help of God in the critical situation facing him. The God of Israel answered him, revealing the king's dream to the prophet, and making known to him its interpretation.

Armed with this knowledge, Daniel sought an audience with the king, and revealed unto him the desired information:

"Thou, O king, sawest, and behold a great image. This great image, whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible. The image's head was of fine gold, his breast and arms of silver, his belly and thighs of brass, his legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay. Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out without hands, which smote the image upon its feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces. Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold, broken to pieces together, and became like the chaff of the summer threshingfloors; and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them; and the stone that smote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth" (Daniel 2:31-35).

This was the dream as the king instantly recognized. Daniel continued by giving the interpretation. He showed that the four different metals of the image represented four world empires that would arise: the ten toes represented a multiplicity of nations that would replace the fourth (Roman) empire; and the stone which smote the image and completely destroyed and supplanted it, represented the Kingdom of God which will be set up on earth, overthrowing the kingdoms of men.

Here is Daniel's interpretation:

"Thou, O king, art a king of kings: for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory... and hath made thee ruler over them all. Thou art this head of gold. And after thee shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee, and another third kingdom of brass, which shall bear rule over all the earth. And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron: forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces and subdueth all things. And whereas thou sawest the feet and the toes, part of potter's clay, and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron... but they shall not cleave one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay. And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever... The great God hath made known what shall be hereafter: and the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof sure" (Daniel 2:37-45).

A brief consideration of this prophecy will reveal that it outlines the history of the world leading to the establishment of the Kingdom of God on earth. It predicts the uprise of four world powers followed by a time when individual and antagonistic European nations will develop prior to divine intervention with the setting up of God's Kingdom on earth.

Babylon: The Head of Gold

“Thou art this head of gold...” declared the prophet in interpreting the vision. Nebuchadnezzar stood as a symbol of Babylon. He was a competent general, whose military exploits laid the foundation of one of the most magnificent empires the world has known. The mighty power of Assyria submitted to him; the smaller nations of the Middle East: Syria, Lebanon, Moab, Ammon and Israel, were conquered: the ancient power of Egypt acknowledged his sovereignty. Throughout the earth, Babylon was dominant.

At great expense, and with slave-labor recruited from the conquered nations, Nebuchadnezzar rebuilt and fortified the city of Babylon, intending that it should become the permanent metropolis of the earth. The vain boast of the king was: “Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for the house of my kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majesty?” (Daniel 4:30).

But already the answer had been given in Scripture. Over 100 years before Nebuchadnezzar rose to power, Isaiah the prophet declared: “Babylon, the glory of kingdoms, the beauty of the Chaldees’ excellency, shall be as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah” (Isaiah 13:19).

The desolate ruins of Babylon thereafter, on the banks of the Euphrates in Iraq, testify to the truth of these words.

Nebuchadnezzar rose to power in the year 606bc, and the Babylonish power came to an end seventy years later in 536bc when Cyrus of Persia swept in from the east and conquered the city. The golden head of the image had given way to the breast and arms of silver!

Medo-Persia: The Breast and Arms of Silver

Babylon was conquered by the joint armies of Darius of Media and Cyrus of Persia, and world power passed to the joint kingdom of Medo-Persia, today known as Iran.

Daniel described the “breast and arms of silver” as “another inferior kingdom” that would arise.

Persia was “inferior” to Babylon in wealth, luxury and magnificence, but not in duration. It was appropriately identified with silver, for, according to the historian Herodotus, the taxation and tribute was paid to Persian authorities in silver tablets. The empire continued for 203 years until its power was superseded by that of Greece.

In the year 333bc, at the battle of Issus, the power of Persia was finally broken by Alexander the Great of Greece.

Greece: The Belly And Thighs Of Brass

“Another third kingdom of brass shall bear rule over all the earth,” declared Daniel. By such expressions as this, he clearly showed the king, that the diverse metals in the image represented different world powers.

In the year 333bc, Persia gave way to Greece as a world power. Greece was noted for brass and copper, which featured in the armour of its soldiers, who, in consequence, were called the “brazen-coated Greeks.”

Alexander the Great of Macedon, was one of the most successful generals in history. Swiftly he extended his conquests throughout the world, until, as legend has it, “he wept because there were no more worlds to conquer.”

But his triumph was short-lived. He died at the age of 33, during the course of a drinking bout in Babylon, after his army had incurred terrible sufferings in an attack deep into India. Upon his death, the Grecian Empire declined. His empire was divided up by his four generals who proceeded to wage war upon each other. And ultimately they were each in turn conquered by a new power that arose from the west: Rome.

Rome: The Legs of Iron

“The fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron, breaking in pieces and subduing all things,” declared Daniel (ch. 2:40). These words describe the ruthlessness of Rome in its march to world power. Its legions triumphantly carried the flying eagle (the symbol of Roman power) into all directions. Gaul, Spain, Britain, Europe, Syria, Mesopotamia, Egypt, were all conquered in turn.

Under Augustus Caesar, the confines of the empire were pushed to the Rhine, and at his death it covered an area one hundred times greater than the original State.

Rome was never conquered by a foreign power; it deteriorated from within through moral decadence, exactly as is indicated in the amazing prophecy of Daniel. No longer does he speak of another universal empire taking over; he indicates that there will be four world powers, and then a division: first into two parts (the legs of the image), and then into many parts (the toes of the image).

Time has completely vindicated the prophecy. In the fourth century AD, the capital of the Roman Empire was transferred from the city of Rome to Constantinople in the east. Ultimately the Empire became divided into two parts: Eastern and Western Rome, answering to the two legs of iron, seen in the vision of Daniel 2.

Rome Destroys Jerusalem

Rome required the plundering of the conquered cities and states. It became a parasite feeding on its dependencies. Its legions marched into Palestine, and destroyed Jerusalem, as Jesus Christ had prophesied, declaring: "They [the Jewish people] shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations: and Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled" (Luke 21:24).

In AD68, war broke out between Rome and Judah. It was a most blood thirsty conflict in which neither side gave ground. Jerusalem was besieged, and the city reduced to terrible straits. Over a million Jews perished in the holocaust. In AD70 the city fell, to be ultimately destroyed by the Romans, with its people, the Jews, taken captive into all nations.

But they were never destroyed; they retained their identity in exile. This, also, is in accordance with the purpose of God. Notice that Jesus Christ limited the period of the down-treading of Jerusalem, and the scattering of its people, by the use of the word, "until..." Today, the Jewish people are continuing to return to the land, and Jerusalem has been freed from foreign domination. For the first time, in over 2,000 years, the Jews are again masters of the city, indicating that "the times of the Gentiles" are about to "be fulfilled."

Why was Rome permitted to gain the ascendancy over Jewry and Jerusalem?

Because of their opposition to the Lord Jesus Christ. When Pilate wanted to free Jesus Christ, the Jews demanded his crucifixion, impiously declaring: "We have no king but Caesar" (John 19:15), "His blood be on us and on our children" (Matthew 27:25).

Appropriately, the Jewish people were given into the hands of Caesar, and paid the terrible penalty in blood.

They misunderstood Jesus Christ. They desired a Messiah who would deliver them from Rome; and did not comprehend that afterwards he will reign from Jerusalem as King, and "rebuke strong nations" (Micah 4:1-3), bringing all dominions into subjection to his rule (Isaiah 60:12; Zechariah 14:9; Revelation 11:15). But first he had to provide the means for individual salvation. At his first advent, he came as "the Lamb of God" to take away "the sin of the world" (John 1:29). He will come again (Acts 1:11), to reward the faithful (Romans 2:7,16), to bring about national redemption (Acts 15:16-17; Jeremiah 23:6-8), and to establish the Kingdom of God upon the earth.

The Uprise of Christianity

Jesus Christ was born in turbulent times. He had come to save his people, but was considered a revolutionary trouble-maker and as a result was slain by his people in collaboration with the ruling Roman authorities.

Three days later, he rose from the dead through the power of God, and proclaimed himself as having the keys of the grave and death (Revelation 1:18).

But he was rejected by the Jews, and this brought about the development of Christianity, as had been predicted by Isaiah: "It is a light thing that thou shouldest be My servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob; and restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be My salvation unto the end of the earth" (Isaiah 49:6).

Rejected by the Jews, the message of salvation was embraced by Gentiles, and the foundation of Christianity laid in the preaching of the Apostles.

Rome Versus Christianity

Rome, particularly under Nero, made determined efforts to stamp out this new sect, but instead it conquered Rome. The arms of the Empire had widened the borders and extended the scope of human experience, as well-made military roads made possible easy access to all parts of the wide-flung Empire. Those roads heard the tramp of marching legions, and also the preaching of the Apostles, calling upon people to separate themselves from Gentilism and give themselves unto God (Acts 15:14). They proclaimed the hope of a risen Christ who will return to put down all rule and authority, and to assume his rightful place as King over the earth (Acts 2:30; 3:19-21; Isaiah 9:7; Zechariah 14:9), at which time he will raise his faithful servants from the grave to inherit life eternal (1 Corinthians 15:20-25, 51-58).

The world was turned "upside down" by the power of this message (Acts 17:6). In fact, it is claimed that the preaching of the Gospel was a part cause of Rome's decline. The early Christians were conscientious objectors; they disregarded the call to war. The teachings of Jesus Christ had caused them to turn from seeking the things of this world, to seeking salvation at his coming. This was a stumbling block to national aspirations and ambitions, and Gibbon, the historian, traces the victory of Christianity as partly the cause of Rome's collapse.

But in the end it was paganism that conquered. The prophecy of the Apostle Paul was fulfilled in that he predicted the rise of false teachers (Acts 20:29-31) and apostasy (1 Timothy 4:1-3; 2 Timothy 4:1-4). Christianity gave way to a divided and antagonistic Christendom which perverted the original Apostolic faith. Pagan doctrines (such as the immortality of the soul, the trinity, etc.) were superimposed upon the truth, and the two main cities of the Empire - Rome and Constantinople - became the headquarters of the Greek and Roman Catholic systems, which divided the Empire ecclesiastically as it also became divided politically.

Thus the Empire was separated into its western and eastern divisions, as foreshadowed by the two legs of iron in the image-vision recorded in Daniel 2. The prophecy clearly and correctly predicted the course of human history.

Divided Europe: The Toes of Iron and Clay

Meanwhile, hordes of barbarians from the east, pressed heavily upon the northern borders of the Roman Empire. Some were absorbed therein; others made inroads by force of arms. In AD476 Rome was occupied by Odoacer, King of the Heruli. But the empire as such was never really conquered; it disintegrated into factions, and in course of time, ten smaller nations, answering to the ten toes of the image, quarrelled over the corpse of the empire, and laid the foundation for modern Europe.

The Papacy arose to unite these independent nations by religion and force of arms, so that the 'Holy Roman Empire' was established in the West (AD800). But politically, the old pagan empire was replaced by a number of quarrelling smaller nations, independent of each other, some strong and others weak. It answered to the requirements of Daniel 2: "As the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly broken. And whereas thou sawest iron mixed with miry clay, they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not cleave one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay."

"Iron and clay" — Imperialism and Communist-Socialism-Democracy.

"partly strong, partly broken" — some powerful, some weak.

"shall not cleave, nor mix" — a disrupted divided condition among the nations.

These are the requirements of the prophecy, and they are exhibited in world conditions today.

Since the Roman Empire broke up, there has arisen no power capable of welding the diverse nations of Europe into one strong, united power. The European Continent remains disunited, with some nations strong and others weak. Several have attempted to revive the Holy Roman Empire, but all have failed. Frederick the Great, Napoleon, Hitler, Mussolini, all saw it as an objective, but destiny was against them. Others have attempted to bring unity through such organizations as the League of Nations and, later, the United Nations Organization, but failure has underlined these efforts also.

The prophecy of Daniel 2 has been completely vindicated by 2,500 years of history!

Daniel predicted the uprise of four great world empires known in history as Babylon, Persia, Greece, and Rome, and then correctly showed that these would be followed by a number of independent and antagonistic nations.

The remarkable fulfilment of his prophecy shows that every confidence can be placed in the predictions of the Bible, and that they reveal the shape of things to come. The Bible constitutes the light of truth and divine revelation in the midst of the darkness of humanistic philosophy and unwise rule. Salvation is promised in its pages, for those who embrace its truth, and fulfil the requirements of the Lord Jesus Christ (see Mark 16:16; compare also Romans 1:16).

Russian Confederacy: The Image United

As King Nebuchadnezzar listened to the words of the prophet, and recalled the dream he had of the warrior-image (Daniel 2:31), he was able to anticipate the course of world history. He saw in the head of gold, the glory of Babylon; in the breast and arms of silver, the might of the Persian Empire that would succeed it; in the belly and thighs of brass, a reference to the swift conquests of the Grecian Empire; in the legs of iron, the ruthless power of Rome; in the feet and toes of iron and clay, the divided state of modern Europe.

But, in addition, he saw the image standing upon its feet as a united whole, and then witnessed a "stone" divinely "cut out of the mountain without hands" which "smote the image upon his feet," causing the top-heavy structure to fall and be broken into pieces. The stone then grew, and crushing the metals of the image into powder which the wind blew away, and in turn it became a mountain and filled the whole earth (Daniel 2:34-35,45).

In recording these things, Daniel told the king that "the great God hath made known to the king what shall come to pass hereafter" (v. 45), in "the latter days" (v. 28).

How is the Image to be united together and stand upon its feet?

Only by the uniting together of the various parts of the image which are at present antagonistic; that is, by the uniting together of the various nations that currently exist upon the territories covered by the image.

How is this to be done?

Bible prophecy reveals that Russia will accomplish it. Russia will subdue Turkey, and incorporate Iran (ancient Persia) under its influence. They will extend their power westward, until all Europe bows before them. By mutual compromise, Rome and Russia will come to agreement, and the image will again be caused to stand upon its feet.

Ezekiel chapter 38 shows that Russia will weld all the modern powers found on the territories represented by the image, into one great military confederation bent on world domination. The prophecy speaks of this mighty power "from the north" (Ezekiel 38:15), coming against the "people of Israel" (v. 16), and involving "all nations" in war (Zechariah 14:1). The Middle East will become the battle-ground of nations, but the issue will be resolved by the Lord Jesus Christ to the glory of God.

Meanwhile, current Russian intrigue in the Middle East, the extension of their power deep into the west of Europe, and the bitter and unremitting antagonism that they show towards the English speaking world, are straws in the wind showing that these prophecies are about to be fulfilled. Everything is happening in accordance with the predictions of the Bible and as Bible students have anticipated, and placed on record for over 100 years.

The Kingdom of God: The Stone That Became A Mountain

But Russia will fail in her attack on Jerusalem and the Middle East because her ambitions run counter to God's Purpose. He has not arranged for the modern revival of Israel that Russia might ultimately take over. The Jewish return to the land is in preparation for the establishment of the Kingdom of God under Jesus Christ the King. Russia will only be permitted to involve the Middle East in war in order to humble the Jewish people, and force them to seek the help of God and of Christ whom they have ignored and opposed for so long (Jeremiah 30:4-9; Ezekiel 37:21-22).

Russia will fail because of what was revealed in the image-prophecy of Daniel 2. The king, in his dream, had seen a "stone cut out of the mountain without hands" (v.45) smite the image on the feet, and destroy it. The stone then became itself a mountain, and "filled the whole earth" (v. 35).

This stone represented the Kingdom of God, as Daniel told the king. It was "cut out of the mountain, without hands" or without human agency, because the nucleus of the Kingdom is through Divine instrumentality.

Its nucleus is Jesus Christ the King, and those who will reign with him. The latter are those who embrace God's truth, and are obedient to His will. Their destiny is to be raised from the dead to incorruptibility (1Corinthians 15:51-58), and to reign with Jesus Christ on earth (vv. 22-25). They are pictured as saying:

"Thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; and hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth" (Revelation 5:9-10).

Again:

"Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power; but they shall be priests of God and of Christ and shall reign with him a thousand years" (Revelation 20:4, 6).

The stone is represented as crushing the image and growing into a mountain that fills the earth, because the Kingdom of God will be established by the exercise of God's power. Jesus Christ returns as the Lion of God (Revelation 5:5), to unleash God's power in the subduing of the nations. The Bible declares, "In righteousness he doth judge and make war" (Revelation 19:11).

He shall “destroy them which [would] destroy the earth” (Revelation 11:18). “The kingdoms of this world become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever” (Revelation 11:15). “The nation and kingdom that will not serve Thee shall perish; yea, those nations shall be utterly wasted” (Isaiah 60:12). “Yea all kings shall fall down before him; all nations shall serve him” (Psalm 72:11). “The Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ” (2Thessalonians 1:8). “God hath appointed a day in which He will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained, whereof He hath given assurance unto all men, in that He raised him from the dead” (Acts 17:31). “The Lord shall be king over all the earth” (Zechariah 14:9).

Consider carefully Daniel's interpretation of the stone smiting the image: “In the days of these kings [divided Europe] shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people [no mortal succession], but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever. Forasmuch as thou sawest that the stone... brake in pieces the iron, brass, clay, silver and gold; the great God hath made known what shall come to pass hereafter: and the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof sure” (Daniel 2:44-45).

This is the clear, certain declaration of God's Purpose, forming a key to the interpretation of the Bible. It requires the personal, visible return of Jesus Christ to the earth (Acts 1:11; 3:19-21; Revelation 1:7; 22:12), and the establishment of God's Kingdom that will bring man's rule to an end.

This clear declaration of the Bible promises a desirable, happy consummation to the present evil state. It provides a satisfactory solution to the deterioration in moral and other conditions evident in the earth today, whilst, at the same time, giving men and women of faith an incentive to obey Christ.

This is the hopeful future to which the world will ultimately come, and towards which a true Bible student can look with joy. An understanding of these things can enrich your life, and provide your children with a spiritual heritage that will enable all the family to look beyond the iron curtain of trouble that encloses most people today, to the glorious Divine purpose when Jesus Christ will reign from Jerusalem over a world at peace (Jeremiah 3:17). In another place, Daniel declared: “the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey Him” (Daniel 7:27).

Here, again, is a clear declaration of God’s Purpose. Notice that the kingdom embraces that which is “under the whole heaven,” or, in other words, on the earth. “Blessed are the meek,” declared Christ, “for they shall inherit the earth” (Matthew 5:5). The meek are those who “receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save their souls” or lives (James 1:21). They “search the Scriptures” with “readiness of mind,” to see whether these things are so, and when they find them so, they “believe” and act (Acts 17:11).

In truth and understanding, they utter the Lord’s prayer: “Thy kingdom come, that Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven” (Matthew 6:10).

The conditions that will then exist on earth are predicted in the words of Isaiah 2:2-4, “It shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord’s house shall be established (a temple of worship in Jerusalem)... and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. And He shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.”

Consider the state of things thus pictured: one unifying religion; people heeding the Word of God and walking in righteousness; nations in subjection to divine law; perfect peace replacing the antagonism and bloodshed of today!

A changed world; a new world order to the glory of God and wellbeing of man.

That is the destiny to which the world is coming in the mercy of God! And you can be a participant in it if you seek God’s way.

What Does This Mean To Us?

A consideration of Daniel's prophecy will reveal that the course of history reveals God's Purpose that is bringing humanity slowly but surely to the point where He will intervene in world events, to set up His kingdom on the earth.

This constitutes a challenge to each one of us. It is good to know that God has a plan for the world to save it from the devastation that man is bringing upon this earth (Revelation 11:18), and in due time He will move to establish His purpose and rid the world of current evils. It is comforting to learn that the wise administration of Jesus Christ will result in "glory to God in the highest, and upon earth peace and goodwill towards men;" but that is no guarantee that we will participate therein. If we desire to enjoy the benefits of that time we must do something about it now.

The Apostle Paul declared that the Gospel "is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth" (Romans 1:16); and Jesus instructed the Apostles to "go into all the world and preach the gospel: he that believeth and is baptised shall be saved" (Mark 16:16).

To believe "the Gospel," we must come to understand the Bible. But that is not so easy as may first appear. There are so many different sects and religions, each claiming to proclaim the truth, that one might despair of attaining unto it. But if salvation is worth having, it is worth seeking, and that is what each one of us must do. If we were suddenly faced with a serious illness that threatened our life, we would leave no stone unturned in seeking an effective remedy. In fact, each of us has a serious illness: mortality! We need to seek a remedy. It is found only in one place, and we must, with independence of mind, search the pages of the Bible to attain unto an understanding of the will and purpose of God, that we might obey and embrace it.

We remind you again: the times are significant; the issues are vital; you owe it to yourself and your family to seek God's way.

THE CHRISTADELPHIANS

Or, as the name implies, the brethren in Christ (Hebrews 2:11), are a community of people associated together by a belief in the things concerning the Kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ (Acts 8:12); and by immersion into Christ (Galatians 3:27) for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38) and a part in his resurrection (Romans 6:5).

They do not profess to have received any new revelation, but hold that the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments are able to make wise unto Salvation (2 Timothy 3:15,17). Believing in the Divine Authorship of the Bible, they think it only reasonable to eschew any interpretation thereof which fails to harmonise all the testimonies of the Holy Scriptures; and finding that the creeds of the various sects around are, in a great variety of ways, opposed to the direct teaching of the Bible, they feel compelled to stand apart, making appeal in all such matters to the statements of Scripture.

They believe in the personal, visible return of Jesus Christ to the earth, to set up his power and reign thereon, and they seek to share this knowledge with others. They offer their services in expounding the message of the Bible without cost of any kind.
